

The Future of Liberal Internationalism: Global Governance in a Post-American Hegemonic Era
May 4-5, 2012

Friday, May 4
Robertson Hall 016

10:45-11am Welcome and Opening Remarks

11-12:30pm Panel One: America and the Future of Liberal Internationalism?

Setting out the Issues:

John Ikenberry, Princeton University

Charles Kupchan, Georgetown University

Discussants:

Martha Finnemore, George Washington University

Jeffrey Legro, University of Virginia

Kees van der Pijl, University of Sussex

Chair, John Ikenberry, Princeton University

12:30-2pm Lunch, Bernstein Gallery

2-3:30pm Panel Two: Does Civilizational Analysis Define and Constrain Liberal Internationalism?

Setting out the Issues:

Peter J Katzenstein, Cornell University

Discussants:

John Hall, McGill University

Harold James, Princeton University

Srdjan Vucetic, University of Ottawa

Chair, Janice Stein, University of Toronto

4-5:30pm Panel Three: From Above and Below: The Coming Era of Network Governance

Setting Out the Issues:

Anne-Marie Slaughter, Princeton University

Discussants:

Alan Alexandroff, Munk School
Sungjoon Cho, Chicago-Kent College of Law
Patrick Meier, Ushahidi/Crisis Mappers
Chair, Keith Porter, The Stanley Foundation

6:15-8:30pm Reception and Dinner, Prospect House

Guest Speaker: Steven Clemons, The Atlantic

Saturday, May 5

Robertson Hall 016

8:30-9am Breakfast, Bernstein Gallery

9-10:30am Panel Four: Can the Large Emerging Powers lead a Liberal International Order?

Setting out the Issues:

Andrew Hurrell, Oxford University

Discussants:

Pratap Mehta, Center for Policy Research, New Delhi
Minxin Pei, Claremont McKenna College
Matias Spektor, Fundacao Getulio Vargas, Brazil
Chair, Stewart Patrick, Council on Foreign Relations

11-12:30pm Panel Five: Liberty, Democracy, and the Liberal International System

Setting out the Issues:

Daniel Deudney, Johns Hopkins University
Andrew Moravcsik, Princeton University

Discussants:

Mark Lagon, Georgetown University
Jeremy Rabkin, George Mason University
Chair, Alan Alexandroff, Munk School, University of Toronto

12:30-1pm Concluding Remarks

Alan Alexandroff, Munk School
John Ikenberry, Princeton University
Stewart Patrick, Council on Foreign Relations
Keith Porter, The Stanley Foundation

This workshop is the third in an annual series on global governance co-sponsored by the Project on the Future of Multilateralism (WWS), the International Institutions & Global Governance Program (CFR), The Stanley Foundation and the Munk School of Global Affairs.